

Join us at the Native American Student Advocacy Institute

May 22–23, 2012
University of California, Los Angeles
Los Angeles, Calif.

Strengthening Connections for Access and Equity in Education

The Native American Student Advocacy Institute celebrates individual triumphs over educational inequities, and provides opportunities for educators and community leaders to form partnerships to ensure postsecondary access and excellence for Native American students.

Who should attend?

- School counselors
- Teachers
- College admission and outreach officers
- Financial aid administrators
- Tribal education leaders
- Parent engagement coordinators
- Policymakers
- Leaders of national advocacy and community-based organizations

Register at nasai.collegeboard.org

For questions, please email nasai@collegeboard.org or call 800-787-7477, ext. 2.

College Board and the acorn logo are registered trademarks of the College Board.

12b-5098