Dear Ms. Clayton

Hello and Seasons greeting. I am responding to your letter dated Friday, November 8, 2013 wherein you mention your association with Professor Pamela Munro and my grandmother Catherine by way of a course you attended there at UCLA. I am very proud of my grandmother and Professor Munro, their long strides to preserve the Chickasaw language is inspiring. I am elated by the energy you express in having learned something of the Chickasaw culture.

All the more, thank you for taking the time to contact me and making me aware of the Native prisoner book program. You were correct in not sending books before hand, this place does have its strict regulations.

If I may, can I ask first for a catalog of your publications? I do have a couple books in mind, but before I ask for them I want to establish contact with you because my address is in limbo. The catalog will follow and find me no matter what. Books are prone to be lost if there's an address change. Plus there is no reason to rush any book request.

Once I received the catalog I will contact you again, hopefully then I'll have certainty on my address. Then I will be able to offer insight regarding regulations when sending books.

Also be assured I will write to my grandmother and Professor Munro making them aware of your letter to me.

Again thank you for taking the time to contact me. Enjoy the upcoming holidays, be safe and be well. Looking forward to hearing back.

Sincerely

Robert

Dear Mr. :

Thank you for your interest in the UCLA American Indian Studies Center Publications Department offerings. In this package we have included a catalog and the following books:

American Indian Culture and Research Journal Volume 37, issue 2
American Indian Culture and Research Journal Volume 37, issue 4
Chainbreaker by Thomas S. Abler

If there are any titles that you are interested in, please respond to this letter with a list of titles and authors. We also have many unlisted books on Native history, art, ceremonial practices, politics, fiction by Native authors, etc. If you are interested in topics that are not in the catalog, simply let us know and we will try to locate them for you.

All of the materials that we send are yours to keep and there is no charge for them. If you want to share, trade, or donate these books when your time in Delano is complete, that is up to you. You do not need to return anything to us.

We hope you enjoy the books. Thank you again for your interest.

Sincerely,

Martha Clayton
