Dr. Nanibaa' Garrison is the recipient of an NIH K01 career development award to explore perspectives of tribal leaders, physicians, scientists, and policy makers on genetic research with tribes. In this talk, she will share the results of the research, as well as discuss more recent work that examines policies pertaining to data ownership and governance, especially as it pertains to Indigenous peoples in the US, Canada, New Zealand, and Australia.

Dr. Nanibaa' Garrison (Diné) is an Associate Professor in the Institute for Society and Genetics and the Division of General Internal Medicine & Health Services Research at the University of California, Los Angeles.

Intersections of AIS & STEM is an event series highlighting the science of Indigenous knowledges. Organized by the UCLA American Indian Studies IDP.
