

CALIFORNIA NATIVE

VOICES THROUGH POETRY

UCLA AMERICAN INDIAN STUDIES CENTER
INVITES YOU TO AN AFTERNOON OF POETRY
BY SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA NATIVE VOICES

SEPTEMBER 25, 2020

3:00 - 4:00 PM (VIA ZOOM)

HTTPS://CALIFORNIANATIVEPOETRY.EVENTBRITE.COM

California Native American Day is celebrated each year on the fourth Friday of September. This state holiday serves not only to recognize tribal people, but also to teach about California tribal cultures, histories and heritage. For the first time, UCLA's American Indian Studies Center will commemorate California Native American Day by hosting a Zoom poetry event featuring local tribal poets: EMILY CLARKE from the Cahuilla Tribe, and KELLY CABALLERO and MEGAN DORAME from the Tongva tribe. Each poet will share knowledge of their language, culture and traditional life of contemporary California Native women. They will discuss issues facing their communities, as well as the perseverance of their cultures.

UCLA
AMERICAN INDIAN STUDIES
CENTER